Gateway© Advanced Communicator and Text Vocabulary Levels

Overview

The Advanced Communicator Level of Gateway© targets individuals with advanced expressive language skills, who could benefit from an efficient and powerful core word vocabulary. The Advanced Communicator Vocabulary Level is a logical next step for children using the Developing Language Vocabulary Level who now require a more mature vocabulary and greater efficiency in message generation to address their communication needs. The Advanced Vocabulary

Level also targets teen and adult users who require an efficient core word vocabulary with fringe vocabulary related to independent care needs and community activities. The words contained on the Verbs and the Describe Pages are richer and more advanced than those within the Developing Language Level. All grid sizes within the Advanced Communicator Vocabulary Level can effectively meet the needs of competent communicators.

The Text Vocabulary Level replicates the core vocabulary and thematic vocabulary contained in the Advanced Communicator. It is created so that individuals who prefer a text-based system, could have access to one. The only difference between the Advanced Communicator Level and Text Level is that in the Text Level, vocabulary is organized alphabetically and on the Advanced level a combination of categorical and alphabetical arrangements are used. To activate the Text Level, open the OPTIONS Menu. Select APPEARANCE -> BUTTONS -> DISPLAY -> LABEL ONLY. Once this is done, Select ADVANCED OPTIONS, Under FOLDER BUTTONS select Display -> and LABEL ONLY. (NOTE: The Options Tool is a global operation. Changing the labels to text will change the buttons across all Vocabulary Levels.)

The Advanced Communicator Level and the Text Level each contain five (5) grid sizes:

- 5*9 (45 buttons);
- 6*11 (66 buttons);
- 8*11 (88 buttons);
- 9*12 (108 buttons);
- 10*14 (140 buttons)

The primary determiners in selecting the which grid size to use are (a) visual abilities and limitations and (b) fine motor abilities and/or limitations. Ideally the user should select the arrangement with the largest number of buttons he or she can access with at least 95% accuracy. One wants to avoid the need to correct unwanted selections.

Vocabulary Organization and Features

- Toolbar with Dictionary and Keyboard
- HOME and COMMUNITY Core
- Fitzgerald Key Arrangement
- Semantic Power Strips
- Dynamic Morphology
- Theme Pages

Toolbar

All grid sizes within the Advanced Communicator and Text Vocabulary Level have a Toolbar, positioned on the left side of the HOME page and other key pages. The items contained in the toolbar are colored in black and have a white font so they can easily be differentiated from the core vocabulary. Using the Visibility feature of Proloquo2Go, these buttons can be dimmed or hidden if they are deemed inappropriate for the user.

The contents of the Toolbar varies with the grid size. Grids contain a link to the Community Core, and may include links to Themes, Sentence Starters, Dictionary, Quick Chat, Spell+, a Clear/Reset function and customizable Names folder. As the grid size becomes more complex, more of these items are available.

The Sentence Starter and Theme links for the 5*9 grid size match the button size of the Main page. Arrangements 6*11 and higher link to a consistent 8*6 (48 button grid size) which is better suited to accommodate text. The contents of the themes is the same across all arrangements.

The Dictionary icon links to folders that are not represented on the HOME page. They enable a user to more efficiently access a content word without needing to navigate through many pages. The number of folders in the dictionary varies with the number of buttons in the grid.

A Spell+ folder is available for grid sizes 5*7 and higher. This provides access to letters, numbers and punctuation. It does not provide access to the Proloquo2Go word prediction. It does however, allow a user to spell a word and have the word seamlessly enter the message window.

Since the Advanced Communicator and Text Level utilize the Gateway© Dynamic Morphology feature a “reset” button is needed should a user’s message require that he/she immediately access the HOME page.

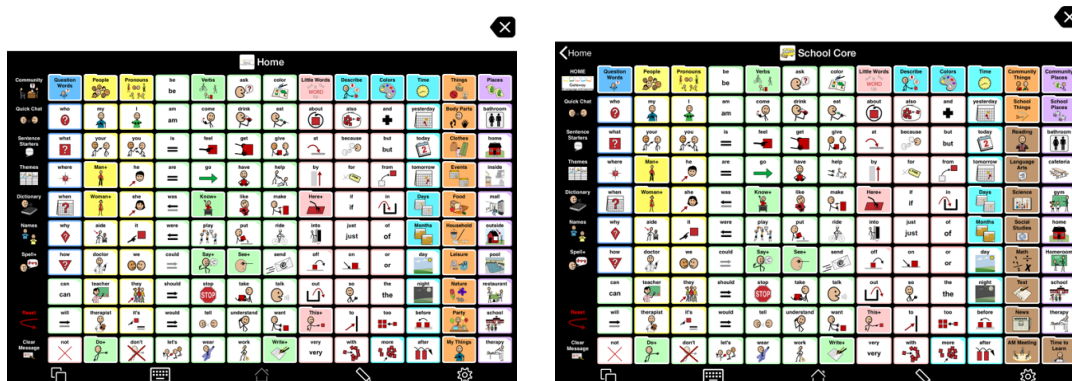

HOME and COMMUNITY Core

Each HOME page contains a set of research-based high frequently core used words accessed with a single key selection and folders linking to word categories such as QUESTIONS, PEOPLE, PRONOUNS, VERBS, LITTLE WORDS, DESCRIBE,

THINGS, PLACES, and other categories such as LEISURE, CLOTHES, etc. Depending up the arrangement auxiliaries and model verb forms are included. Users may configure the Proloquo2Go settings to activate its grammar function to access the full range of morphological endings.

Each grid size also contains a COMMUNITY Core that can be accessed by selecting the interview icon from the Toolbar. The COMMUNITY Core replicates the contents of the HOME page for core vocabulary and grammatical category folders. The fringe category folders (e.g., CLOTHES, FOODS, HOUSEHOLD, etc.) change to reflect topics needed for use within a school or community setting. These may include AM MEETING, NEWS, TEST, but always includes SCHOOL THINGS, SCHOOL PLACES, COMMUNIY THINGS, COMMUNITY PLACES. This strategy enables users to access topical vocabulary without losing access to its consistent core vocabulary of Gateway’s HOME page. Below is an example of the HOME and COMMUNITY Core for the 10*14 grid size.

Fitzgerald Key Arrangement

Each word and word category are color-coded according to the Fitzgerald Key format. As seen in the images above, People are yellow; Verbs – green; Little Words – pink, Descriptive Words – blue; Things – orange and Places – purple. Folders are solid colored and buttons have a colored border. This color-coding is consistent throughout all of the Gateway pages and helps ease the transition for a child moving from one page set to the next level of complexity. Within the Fitzgerald Key, “Little Words” are defined as prepositions, articles and conjunctions and “Descriptive Words” includes adjective, adverbs, and time words.

Semantic Power Strips

Some grid sizes (e.g. 5*9; 8*11) use a Gateway© feature referred to as a Semantic Power Strip. Semantic Power Strips are sets of paradigmatically associated words, that enable a user to access related vocabulary without scrolling through pages or popup screens. They are represented by a “solid colored button with a +” following a word. Semantic Power Strips are used for words such as girl+, boy+, and for some verbs. For example, selecting “girl+” will open a semantic power strip containing – girl, mom, grandma, aunt, sister, etc. The number of related words varies with the grid size. That is, a 5*9 power strip may have fewer vocabulary options presented than an 8*11 power strip, as there are few buttons on the page.

Dynamic Morphology

All of the Advanced Communicator and Text grid sizes include Gateway’s Dynamic Morphology features (i.e., word endings are automatically added to verbs without requiring additional key selections), that help contribute to the its efficiency. Users can create syntactically correct messages with a minimal amount of effort. Verb endings are automatically added to 3rd person singular, present progressive, and the infinitive verb forms (e.g., want -> to have). Subject pronouns automatically convert to object pronouns following the selection of pronouns, such as for, by and with. Examples are provided below.

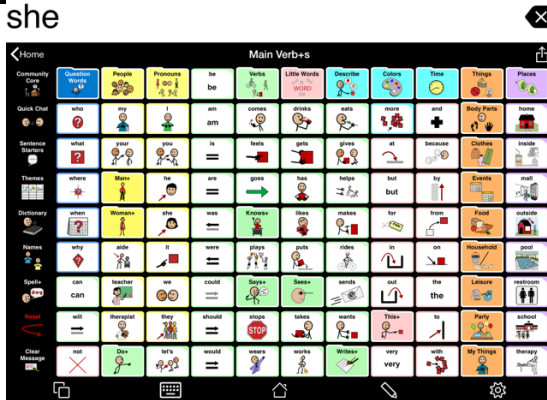

we are

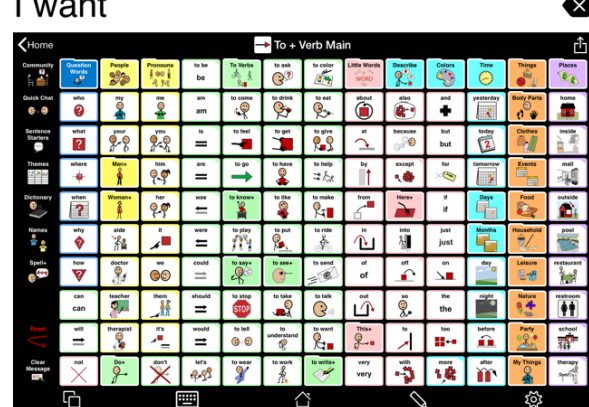

I want to go with

I want

Users of the Advanced Communicator and Text arrangements also have access to the standard Grammar features of Proloquo2Go so they can easily add comparatives and superlatives to adjectives and “-ly” to adverbs. Users are able to add morphological endings as needed within the context of natural conversation.

Themes

All of the Advanced Communicator and Text grid sizes include a set of Theme pages to support functional device use within recurring environments. The content of each set of theme pages is the same for all arrangements within the Advanced Communicator and Text Vocabularies.

The Themes folder links to 5 topical tabs – About You & Me, Comments/Questions, Time to Learn, Time to Relax, and Time in Town. The About You & Me tab must be personalized for the user. It provides a means to provide basic information about ones self. The Comments and Questions contents are self-explanatory.

Since some users of the Advanced Communicator Vocabulary will likely be teens and young adults in high school or in college, the Time to Learn folder is provided. There is plenty of open space to customize these pages so students can demonstrate mastery of the Core Curriculum Standards and also to enable them to function independently within the classroom.

The Time to Relax tab contains folders that one would use in a leisure setting such as playing cards, Bingo, board games and the like.. The Time in Town tab has pages that can be used within the community. Each of these requires some customization so they are most meaningful for the individual to use within functional activities. Pages include topics such as: At the Mall, McDonald's, Ice Cream, Vacation, Amusement Park and in the Park. The Scouts and Religion pages are open for customization and there are an additional blank pages to support the personal activities of the user.

Why Gateway©

- Simple to Learn
- Efficient Organization Results in Minimal Keystrokes Per Word
- Consistent Vocabulary Placement Supports Learning through Motor Planning Principles

Simple to Learn

Gateway is easy to learn. The cognitive demands associated with learning symbol meanings are minimized by the use of single-meaning icons and/or written words to represent vocabulary. For nouns and many other word classes, the selected symbols provide a transparent or intuitive means of representing vocabulary. Text is used to represent many function words. This helps to reduce the need for learning arbitrary symbols to represent the words of our language that cannot be easily be represented by an iconic symbol.

Efficient Organization Results in Minimal Keystrokes Per Word

Gateway has been organized to provide maximum efficiency for the user. An efficiently designed system enables a user to converse with a minimum amount of effort. In the Advanced Communicator Level, a user can achieve an average ≤ 1.5 key selections per word for the core vocabulary. Gateway's Dynamic Morphology feature results in a significant reduction in keystrokes when generating messages. This is an important feature for students included in a regular education setting and for communicating within the community. Words considered fringe, or less frequently used vocabulary, may require two or more key selections. The number of words presented per page affects efficiency.

The following table presents sample sentences created using the single word vocabulary of the Advanced Communicator and Text Vocabulary Levels.

Advanced Communicator Comparison		Key Selections
Message	# Words	5*9	6*10	8*11	10*14
		40	60	80	130
We are going to eat chicken.	6	8	8	8	6
Can you help me?	4	6	5	5	4
I want to go to the mall.	7	6	7	6	6
Yesterday they helped me with my computer.	7	12	11	11	10
I want to get my sister a present.	8	10	10	10	9
Will you give it to me?	6	9	6	6	6
What do you want me to do?	7	9	8	9	8
She has to work tomorrow.	5	7	6	4	4
Total Spoken Words – Hits	50	67	61	59	53
Avg. # Keystrokes Per Word		1.34	1.22	1.18	1.06

These sample sentences contain 50 words. Using the core word component of the Advanced Communicator or Text Level of Gateway, a user would need to make total of 67 key selections to generate these sentences using the 5*9 grid size. The average number of keystrokes (ANK) to "speak" these sentences is 1.34. The efficiency increases as the size of grid increases. Using the 10*14 grid size, 53 keystrokes are required and the ANK is 1.06. While the ANK of key selections will vary with the unique messages generated by each user, these sample sentences provide a rough estimate of Gateway's efficiency for messages generated during a routine conversation.

How was the Vocabulary Selected?

- Frequency of Use
- Targets Conversational Needs of Teens and Adults
- Educational and Community-based Needs

Frequency of Use

The core vocabulary selected for use within each of the Gateway[®] Vocabulary Levels are based upon research and by analyzing the vocabulary contents of the communication boards of individuals who can effectively communicate across a variety of topics appropriate to their age and interests. All Gateway[®] page sets contain a "core" of words such as eat, drink, go, want, and have. No matter what phase an individual is within their language development, these words are a part of one's core vocabulary.

Some words may be important at one phase of an individual's life and not at another. For example, bubbles are important to young children. A razor may be important to an adolescent or adult. The Advanced Communicator and Text Levels were designed to meet the needs and interests of individuals in late middle school through adults.

Targets Conversational Needs of Teens and Adults

Some older AAC users who are not proficient spellers, often restrict their spoken and written communication to words found within their AAC device. The Advanced Communicator Level of Proloquo2Go offers many advanced level verbs, adjectives and adverbs. These are words that were found in a range of middle and high school word lists. Since some of the vocabulary differs from the Developing Language Vocabulary level, users who move to this level from the Developing Language Level will benefit from systematic instruction to help teach contents and location of new vocabulary.

Academic Needs

It is expected that some individuals who use the Advanced Communicator Level of Gateway[®] are middle-school students and teens. To enhance a user's classroom participation and to better enable his or her ability to demonstrate mastery of the core curriculum competencies, all grid sizes within this level of Gateway contain requisite vocabulary for Morning Meeting and links to pages where targeted academic vocabulary can be added. Grid sizes 5*9 through 10*14 include the states, countries and planets. The academic pages have also been designed to interface with the Main page so that a user can respond using single words or use complete sentences. A TEST page can enable a user to complete a test or worksheet without significant adult assistance.

Understanding Proloquo2Go's Functions and Features

Gateway was designed using the Proloquo2Go App. In many respects it is comparable to a separate user within Proloquo2Go. Personalization or customization of Gateway[®] requires that the person assigned with this responsibility demonstrates a basic level of competency with Proloquo2Go editing and operational functions. That is, a person needs to know how to edit a button. Minimally editing a button can involve changing the label, the symbol, or the text to be spoken. Gateway uses the standard Fitzgerald key color-coding. A user may opt to change button borders and backgrounds. The graphic below highlights the button features that can be edited.

In addition to button features, there are basic edit mode tools that one must become familiar with. In Proloquo2Go, vocabulary that appears on a page is considered to be on the Primary Level. Within Gateway, there will be some pages that offer a user access to vocabulary stored on the Secondary Level. If there are words on a page that do not match the needs of the user, do NOT delete these words, but rather move them to the Storage level. Since there is a some relationship to all pages within all Gateway vocabulary Levels (e.g., Child Functional, Developing Language, etc.) it is optimal to move unwanted words and/or folders into storage in the chance that the user may want to access these at a later time. The “Trash Can” pictured below, is the Delete function. If you select it, you will be given the options of moving it into storage or permanently deleting the selected button. Again, by no means it recommended that any word or folder, be permanently deleted from Gateway.

Edit Mode Tools

Grammar

Another important Proloquo2Go feature is Grammar Support. This features is especially important to competent communicators or to any user whose speech-language goals include syntactic development. Pictured to the right is a sample of the parts of speech that can be controlled using the grammar support “Option”. Each can be turned ON if it is appropriate for the user or you can choose to not use it. When a user wants to be able to add word ending in the course of message generation, the grammar support features for the specific part of speech must be turned to ON.

Below are examples of the grammar popups for a pronoun, a verb and an adjective. These are accessed by depressing a location. The amount of time a user needs to keeps the button depressed can be controlled through the Options Menu.

Assistiveware has extensive resources to support users of Proloquo2Go. These resources are on their website - <http://www.assistiveware.com/support>. The Proloquo2Go manual is also located inside the app itself. It can be accessed in several ways (1) Options > green help button in upper right corner; (2) Edit mode > Quick Options > green help button in upper right corner; (3) Edit mode > tap ? for help overlay > tap the “learn more” link in the upper left area of the help overlay to get to the Edit mode specific section of the manual.

Gateway’s Functions and Feature

The Gateway Vocabulary features such as Semantic Power Strips, Dynamic Morphology, and the Spell+ page, were created using the programming features of Proloquo2Go. The Spell+ page provides access to the keyboard and in some of the larger arrangements it also includes numbers, and punctuation. This keyboard provides the user access to letters, numbers and punctuation. It does not offer word prediction. If a user wants to access the Proloquo2Go word prediction features, he or she must use through Typing View available through the Toolbar. Accessing the Proloquo2Go word prediction function adds a significant number of hits, the Spell+ page was added as a means to quickly add text. This should not be used as a primary spelling function, but instead as a quick way to add words not found within the Gateway pages or perhaps to respond quickly within an educational activity.

Gateway uses Semantic Power Strips as a tool to provide the user access to semantically related words. After selecting a word from the semantic power strip, the popup automatically closes. This is done as a keystroke saving minimizing the need for a user to close the page after each word.

This same auto-close feature is used throughout Gateway’s core vocabulary. When composing a message, a user can select words from the Home page and then access fringe vocabulary selecting folders such as Things, Play, Events, and the like. Each time a word is accessed on the fringe vocabulary page, the page automatically closes. Depending upon where the page is and for what purpose, it will either return to the Home Page or to the Previous Page. Should the user wish to change the setting beverages considered representative of the typical foods people eat. This may or may not match the preferences of the individual using Gateway. Changes should be made to this page as needed to allow the user to communicate effectively. Family and user input should be considered in determining what changes, if any, are needed. Other pages such as Things and Places will also require the same type of consideration in evaluating the "appropriateness" of the vocabulary provided.

Educational and Social Information

In order to help an individual meet his or her educational and social goals, it is imperative that the user is able to express the vocabulary targeted for the range of spoken and written educational tasks associated with each core curriculum competency. While it is recognized that Gateway does not contain all of the educational vocabulary needed by each user, it is believed that Gateway does create a framework to enable a user to meet many educational competencies. Individuals working with a Gateway user (i.e., the teachers, therapist, aides) must take an active role in adding appropriate vocabulary to this program as needed. This requires that these individuals become familiar with the contents of Gateway. It also requires that they know what vocabulary is needed to complete daily lessons. Vocabulary that is needed, and that is not currently stored within the Gateway vocabulary, should be added if and when determined necessary by the student's team.

In addition to the content or subject pages that have been left open to customize for lessons as indicated, there is a Test page that enable a student to quickly complete tests that can be answered with True/False or multiple choice answers.

Where Do We Begin?

The specific approach used to implement Gateway will vary with the needs and language abilities of the user. It is the philosophy of this author that Gateway be introduced to the user in a variety of functional contexts. Successful implementation requires a commitment on the part of the individuals working with the user (i.e., the facilitator, teacher, SLP) to become familiar with Gateway's vocabulary contents and the location of these words. It also requires a commitment to personalize the program to match the needs, interests and abilities of the user.

Evaluating the AAC User's Abilities

While one may have a sense of a user's abilities and limitations, it is often helpful to formally assess a user's skills to set appropriate goals and to measure or document progress. While with a competent adult communicator, this may not be necessary, it is considered important when implementing Gateway with any school-aged student. Gateway provides an AAC user the tools to demonstrate his/her abilities and weaknesses. It contains the necessary words and word morphology features to allow a user to respond to questions on various formal tests. The user's responses will be influenced by his/her knowledge of the vocabulary contents of the system. Assuming the user has a solid knowledge of the vocabulary contents of the Gateway arrangement being used, the user's responses can be considered indicative his or her language abilities. The tests have not been normed on this population. As such, they should be used to determine performance skills rather than to obtain percentiles, standard scores or mental ages. A user's physical and behavioral characteristics need to be considered in the testing process

Unlike working with a speaking individual, evaluating an AAC user's expressive language performance must follow the user's introduction to his/her communication system. If we want to see how a individual uses language, we must first let the user become familiar with the core vocabulary. Depending upon variables such as how often the user has had access to the system and how much intervention is being provided, a therapist's assessment can occur within 3-4 weeks after the system is introduced. The more opportunity the user has to become familiar with the vocabulary, the more reliable the assessment will be.

Once the user learns what words are available in the system and how to access these words, one can then assess a range of expressive abilities from grammar and semantics, to problem solving and critical thinking. Assessment can be informal or formal.

Learning to Communicate with Gateway

The general strategies used to teach Gateway are straightforward. The primary goals must be to insure that the user learns the vocabulary contents and organizational structure of Gateway. Once specific language intervention goals are identified, functional activities can be designed and implemented.

For an individual who has functionally used a communication board or other AAC App with a significant number of single words prior to receiving Gateway, introduction to this program should flow as a logical extension of his or her use of the manual board or App and to the teaching strategies already in place. That is, the individual will need to be oriented to where vocabulary is located, and what vocabulary is available, but it would be expected that the individual's performance with the Gateway program should eventually mirror or exceed his or her performance with his/her other system. As the individual learns more vocabulary, and is exposed to advanced language features, it would be expected that the individual's language performance and competency in using the vocabulary to communicate would improve. Strategies that have been used successfully to help older students and adults include:

Teaching Vocabulary Contents and Location. Teaching contents and location can be accomplished through focused intervention as well as through games and recreational activities. If the user does not know what words are available to him/her to create a message, unless the user can spell, he will not be able to formulate messages to express needs, wants, or ideas. Some strategies that can be used to teach the single word vocabulary include: (a) highlighting the organizational structure, (b) using Gateway to “talk”, (c) creating opportunities to learn new words, (d) writing and (e) traditional language intervention

Highlight the Organizational Structure. Regardless of which Gateway grid size (e.g., 5*9, 6*11, 8*11, 10*14) is selected for the user, the augmented communicator should be systematically introduced to the Home page, which is the core of the single word vocabulary. Each of the color-coded word categories should be pointed out along with its corresponding color-coded page link. A rationale for the color of some command keys has been established. It is felt that the color-coding may help some augmented users learn to locate words more quickly.

Using Gateway to “Talk”. Many individuals who began using AAC as young children, do not talk for the purpose of sharing information. They use their devices to request and to respond. Efforts should be made to engage the user in a dialogue. Teach the vocabulary by talking with the augmented communicator. This dialogue may need to begin with simple questions to help frame or focus the conversation.

Create Opportunities to Learn New Words. Based upon the age and or abilities of the augmented communicator, it may be helpful to systematically introduce each page, and when doing so, integrate vocabulary from other pages as appropriate. To teach the “people” on the Home page or on the People page, a therapist can show a user his family photos or other people. The user can tell “who” the person is; name the other people who live in the same house; tell how the person is related (i.e., friend, aunt, uncle) and so on. This often leads to spontaneous interaction as individuals enjoy talking about family and friends. Similar activities may be done to introduce the other pages such as, Little Words, Describing Words and Places.

Writing. Writing is also an excellent way to help a user master the Gateway core and also to expand expressive language performance. Writing activities can be as simple as having the user complete a fill in the blank activity, or it can be as complex as having a user write a complex narrative. Most importantly, the writing activity should match the user’s expressive language performance and life goals.

Learning Gateway Through Traditional Language Intervention. The Gateway core contains many of the frequently used words of our language. As such, for older users many games and therapy materials can be used with only minimal modifications. Some materials may require more modifications than others. When an “off the shelf” game or activity contains words of little interactive value to the AAC user (e.g., kite, mouse, umbrella), it is suggested that the activity be modified rather than changing the vocabulary of the Gateway program to accommodate the program unless changing that vocabulary will ultimately increase device use long term.

There are many ways to teach Gateway. How it is taught can, and should, vary with the needs and abilities of the user. The suggestions provided here are just that, suggestions. The user’s speech language pathologist is key in the implementation process. A therapist or communication partner should communicate to the child while using Gateway, creating messages with the words of the Gateway program.

Communicating Through the Academic Pages. Enabling a user to master the core curriculum standards is a challenge for those using AAC devices. It is impossible to include all needed educational vocabulary in any page set. Even if the space was available to do so, recalling the location of the needed vocabulary would be extremely difficult to achieve based the fast pace of a regular classroom setting. In an effort to help users of Gateway page sets actively participate in their educational programs and/or demonstrate mastery of the core curriculum standards a framework for customization has been established. There are open pages tied to subject folders. These can be customized as needed. It is recognized that a year’s worth of classroom vocabulary cannot be stored, but typically there is room to accommodate chapters.

Using the Recreational Pages. There is no question about the fact that almost everyone enjoys engaging in leisure activities. Within Gateway there are a variety of pages designed included to enable user’s to participate in leisure activities while communicating with their peers. They will be able to easily learn the device contents while engaged in a functional activity.

Summary

Gateway is a powerful core word page set complemented with rich pragmatic pages for use in recurring environments. Since 1998, Gateway has helped many individuals become competent communicators and achieve academic success. It has enabled competent communicator to efficiently and effectively meet their daily communication needs across environments. Success in using Gateway is highly correlated with how its user is supported in learning the contents of the page set and in having access to his or her device at all times.

The Alpha Sort contains words that are directly linked to the Core Vocabulary through the HOME and SCHOOL CORE. It does not contain vocabulary that appears only on a THEME or activity-based page. A check mark (✓) indicated that the word is on the specified page. A number two (2) indicates that the word appears on Proloquo2Go's VocaPriority 2nd level.
